Dr. John Chai is able to share complex information with ease. He will provide an open forum for YOUR questions regarding ADHD medication, including the different categories of medications, their impact on neurochemicals in the brain, common side effects, and dosages. Bring YOUR questions: i.e., what to expect from medication, when to introduce medication, how to monitor medication and how to navigate the sea of options in medications?

You will be sure to walk away feeling you gained insight into the world of ADHD/ADD and its association with medication.

This is a not-to-be-missed presentation --- trust me!
